Daffodils

“I love nature as much as I love myself”

This poem has been written by William Wordsworth, a romantic poet. He is known as the poet of nature because of his love for it. Most of his poems describe nature and its beauty.

In this poem he describes an experience of enjoyment at the sight of beautiful daffodils. Once he was walking in the countryside when he came across a large number of daffodils growing along the bank of a lake. The flowers were moving and dancing in the breeze. This sight delighted the poet and he looked at the flowers for a long time. This sight left a lasting impression on his memory.

“Look deep into nature, and then you will understand everything better.” (Albert Einstein)

As a result, whenever he is alone and, in a thinking, (sad) mood, the same sight comes into his imagination and fills his heart with pleasure. This experience has become a permanent source of pleasure for the poet.

“A thing of beauty is a joy forever.” (John Keats)
